The research for these reports was carried out during early 2003. This research included primary contact with paint suppliers and paint industry associations in China and India, as well as a thorough review of all available published sources and official statistics. Data is provided up to the year 2002 wherever possible, and forecasts for paint consumption are calculated to 2007.

These unique publications provide a comprehensive picture of the industry and market in each national market. They also provide invaluable information on end-user industries for paints in China and India, and give an insight into market opportunities and drivers.
